Dear Mr Morris

Thank you so much for your kind and generous donation of £1,500.00 to Macmillan Cancer Support. It's thanks to supporters like you that we can continue to improve the lives of people affected by cancer. Thank you for providing the interesting explanation of your work.

A cancer diagnosis is a very stressful and challenging time, not just for the person with cancer, but also for the people who love and care for them. We give people living with cancer, and their carers, the emotional and practical help they need, and help them support themselves and each other.

We want to help people understand their illness; to take away some of the fear, allow them to make informed decisions about their treatment and have access to the services they need. To do this we have to plan the way we're going to develop and support our services.

With more people being diagnosed with cancer and living longer with it, NHS budgets are put under greater pressure. We are pushing ever harder for cancer to remain a political priority and for government policies across the UK to help improve standards of cancer care. At the same time we are campaigning for a better financial deal for people living with cancer. We are aware that holding down a job or returning to work while you have cancer can be hard.

These are just a few of the areas of our work which are made possible by people like you. You have helped change lives.

Yours sincerely
