Crematorium Technicians Training Scheme

Want to convert your old CTTS qualification to BTEC Advanced standard?

Here's how to do it……..

The Institute is aware that many people already have the existing CTTS qualification and may want to upgrade to the new BTEC accredited qualification.

Our Conversion Programme is aimed at these people. It targets those areas of the course that were not covered under the old scheme. These include new EPA requirements brought in under PG5/2(04) and subsequent Guidance notes issued by Defra; health and safety requirements and recycling.

So, if you are one of these people and you want an accredited qualification, what do you have to do to complete the Conversion?

On receipt of a completed Conversion Application Form (available on our website or from our National Office) we will send you CDs with the Study Pack and Student Workbook for both the Intermediate and the Advanced level BTEC accredited course.

You will be required to complete only those elements of the Workbooks that are new to the course as described above. The Workbook will be submitted to the Institute who will send you a Conversion Assignment for you to complete. This will comprise a series of questions which have to be answered in written form.

Providing this is returned and meets ICCM and Edexcel assessment criteria, a BTEC accreditation certificate will be issued to you.

So what are you waiting for?
